SPEAKING OF BUTTERINE.

What the General Government Loses Ar nually on the Article From Pennsyl vania Alone—A Manufacturer Talks. Colonel L. V. Stone, of Chicago, who is well known in Pittsburg, went to Philadelphia last night on the fast line. Colonel Stone is a manufacturer of butterine, and before his return to Chicago he will go to Washington and will appear before a Con gressional Committee to protest against the passage of the Crisp bill regulating the manufacture of butterine. The Crisp bill in Congress proposes to give to each State in the Union the right to deal with the manufacture of crisp bill to deal with the manufacture of crisp to deal with the deal w ufacture of spurious butter just as it sees fit

Colonel Stone said:

This measure would kill our business entirely. It would drive all the legitimate manufacturers out of the business and it would give the field to what in the revenue service is known as moonshiners. At present many States are struggling with the question of how to deal with our business. In Virginia, for instance, where they are legislating on the question, some practical joker proposed that all butterine sold within the limits of that State should be colored a bright pink. The joke was accepted in earnest, and now every pound of the article that is legally sold in the State is colored according in the State is colored according to the law and is a bright pink. Not only is the stuff colored pink, but it is sent into the State in pink packages. Ohio is now endeavoring to have the Virginia law adopted in that State, and the politicians out there in that State, and the politicians out there are fighting their battles on the question of pink or yellow butterine. Strange as it may seem, it begins to look as though the pink fellows would win ont, and we will, no doubt, be compelled to tinge our Ohio sales just as we tinge the output we send to Virginia.

Colonel Stone said:

In Illinois they are after us, too. Out In Illinois they are after us, too. Out there the Legislature contemplates forcing us to give our product some peculiar color by which it will be readily known, but they have not yet decided upon the color they want. Just such nonsense would result in every State in the Union if the Crisp bill becomes a law. The question of the making of butterine is not the all important one that is at the bottom of the Crisp bill. It is the long sten it takes in the direction of the long step it takes in the direction of State rights and the question of butterine seems only the opening wedge to secure to each State all the rights desired or required. "How does the oleomargarine law oper-ate in Pennsylvania?" was asked.

I have recently had a consultation with Internal Revenue Commissioner Mason on the subject, and I am thoroughly convinced that the general Government is losing annually not one cent less than $5,000,000 through the State law that prohibits the sale of the article in Pennsylvania. We cat butterine in Pittsburg every day, and, as surprising as it may seem, I was to-day in a butter store where they sell absolutely nothing but pure creamery butter, and while there more than a dozen people called and asked for butterine. They refused to buy the pure butter for the same price that they can buy the butterine, as they argued that the pure butter got strong before they used it. This is one reason why they cannot prohibit the sale of the manufactured article, and for the same reason the general Government is losing a fortune annually by of which were adopted.

APPEALS BEING REHEARD.

Question of Classification Proves the Stumbling Block.

EAST ENDERS CLAIM TO BE RURAL. Schenley Estate Agent Wants a Big Cut

Made in Valuation. TALKING ABOUT THE EQUITY SUIT

The Board of Assessors are endeavoring to adjust as many as possible of the assessments that have failed to please and to ward off any more equity suits. To that end they have granted rehearings in a number of cases where appeals were not satisfactorily acted upon, and they expect to keep it up for some time to come. Yesterday morning's hearing was an interesting one. Attorneys Bruce and Shields were on hand for their clients, notwithstanding the claim in their bill in equity that the Poard of Assessors had no legal existence. During the hearing, while Mr. Shields was exercising his privilege of cross-examination oft he assessors, Chief Assessor Case could not resist the temptation to ask: "Mr. Shields, your presence here is a surprise to me. It is somewhat unusual for an termey to appear before a board which he claims has no legal existence, is it not?" The hanter was not taken up by the attorney and it ended there, but his discomfiture was enjoyed by the others present. Assessors Satisfy Many Appellants, The rehearings thus far granted have been taken under consideration in most cases, though in a few decisions have been rendered. In all cases decided the assessors have shown a determination to stand by their classification system and, generally, to their valuations. The bulk of the appeals are on the classification. In a number o instances the assessors have simply talked the appeals over with appellants and convinced them of their fairness and equity, sending them away satisfied. It is only when the appellant has an attorney acting for him that it is impossible to get such an easy settlement. Charles J. Clarke, whose handsome residence on Forbes street attracts so much attention, was one of the applicants for a rehearing yesterday, being represented by Bruce & Shields. Mr. Clarke's original assessment had been $302,531, of which $195,fol was on his 714 neres of residence grounds, $24,000 on two acres on Niagara street, $36,200 on residence and other buildmes and $55,250 on the 1% acre tract bounded by Fifth and Craft avenues and Forbes

Made a Very Slight Reduction. His first appeal fixed the value of the residence ground at $109,000, buildings at $24,200, Ningara street land at $18,000 and the Fifth avenue tract he raised to $60,000, for which sum he offered to sell. The Assessors then changed his assessment, making a reduction on part as rural as follows: seven and one-fourth-acre tract, $112,000; residence, grounds and buildings, $21,200; re street, two acres, $18,000; Fifth avenue tract, $30,000, making the total assessment $182,000, or considerably less than the original assessment on the residence ground alone. But even this was not satisinctory to Mr. Clarke. At the hearing yesterday the Assessors declined to take any more off the land figures, but on the testimony produced struck off $1,300 more on curbuildings, making the total assessment $180,700. Whether this will be satisfactory or not has not been determined.

On his numerous properties on Morewood, Bidwell, Ellsworth, Fifth and Amberson vennes his original assessment footed up 365,368, but his appeal was for a reduction $248,511. The assessors made a lew cuts m his assessment. On 214 acres at Fifth how made a cut to $20,000 an acre: a lot 51210, in rear of Bidwell street, was cut om $10,125 to $3,300. A number of other hanges were made, but the property was carly all classed as full taxable and Mr. demands rural. D. D. Bruce's property consists of 1,042 neres running from Fifth to Wilkins ave-nues, and 5% acres on Wightman and Wilkins streets. In 1891 the former was assessed at $11,360, but the original assessent this year reduced it to $8,336. The st named piece was assessed at $5,125 in set and $30,750 this year. On his appeal

he valuations were fixed at $7,000 an acre on the first and $6,000 an acre on the second piece, half full taxable and half rural class. Appeal From the Schenley Estate. Mrs. Mary E. Schenley's original assessment in the Fourteenth ward was a little over $1,930,000, and the bulk of it was classified as full taxable, but her representaves here by appeal succeeded in getting it nt down several hundred thousand and aving most of it classified as rural and gricultural. This, however, is not satisinctory, and they want the assessment made the same as in 1889, or about 10 per cent On Mrs. Schenley's Eighteenth ward property she was originally assessed $334,000 this year. On the 105%-acre ract on Stanton avenue the value fixed was 317,296, but the agents figured it as worth only $84,600 and got a compromise reduc-They are still unsatisfied, however, and although they don't figure in the equity proceedings filed on Thursday they expect to get a further reduction as a result of the large owners of property who, through their attorneys, have been granted rehearings were J. W., L. J. and W. A. Herron, of the Thirteenth ward; Jonghrey, John Dawson, Mrs. E. M. Watson and Mrs. B. Maeder, of the Fourteenth ward; Sarah C. King, Chas. Lockhart, L.

morning, and will be continued thence until Opinions varied yesterday as to what will e the result of the equity suit filed by D D. Bruce and others the previous day. It is generally believed that the Court will give each appeal separate consideration and not strike down the triennial assessment. If this is done, it is not expected there will be any trouble, but if the Court follows the suggestion of the plaintiffs by declaring the assessment void because it was not made up, as alleged, from the ward assessors' books, erious results are expected to follow. BADE ADIEU FOREVER.

Members Shed Tears as They Say Goodby

The members and friends of the M. P. Church gathered in the old building last night to ake a final farewell of the edifice which for so long has held much near and dear to them. During the meeting tears were seen to glisten in the eyes of more than one old pillar of the church. Long after the session was over, the older folks lingered. They seemed to be trying to prolong the parting as much as possible, as though they were bidding adieu forever

o some friend near and dear. All the societies of the church met last night and made reports. One of the most interesting was that of Sunday School Superintendent W. K. Gillespie. The school was formed away back in 1829, but there was no record of the school until 1847, as the janitor had sold the minutes of the intervening years for waste paper. From what could be gathered it was shown the school of 1829 was composed of 350 members, but at the present time it is down to 130. The records of the school bear the names of many prominent Pittsburg-ers. In 1867 C. L. Magee was assistant librarian. For the past 20 years, one-third the life of the church, Misses Irene Rutledge and Annie Armstrong have been teachers in the Sunday school. This is onsidered a splendid record.

Miss Ella Patton showed what Woman's Exchange had been doing. The organization was formed in 1888 and has a membership of 30. It was instituted to help in decreasing the debt of the church, and has so far contributed $200 toward that It was also shown that the church con-tributed heavily to the fire sufferers in 1845. Other reports rend were as follows: Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, Mrs. Mary A. Miller; King's Daughters, Miss Annie Rutledge: Christian, Endeavor So-ciety, Williard Zimmerman, and Preachers' Aid Society, John S. Elliotts. This last organization was formed in 1831, It now has a reserve fund of $27,000.

A PORTABLE FIRE BRIDGE.

George Barnes' Novel Invention to Prevent Street Railway Tie-Ups. George Barnes believes he has solved the problem of street car tieups during big fires. Chief Brown and ex-Superintendent Evans, of the Pittsburg Fire Bureau, agree with him. He has invented a portable bridge, which can be attached to a street car and hauled to the scene of a fire. It is light enough to be handled by two men, and when raised, the present size will be 16 likely the matter will be compromised by giving to Common Council an extra mem feet high and 26 feet from base to base, or large enough to cover three street car racks. It is also strong enough to bear the weight of half a dozen lines of hose, and could be used as an elevation from which the firemen could fight the flames. The contrivance is simple in construction. There are wheels on each side of the suports which double up under the main part of the bridge. The bridge is raised by simply drawing the ends out and the apparatus is so balanced that the weight nearly all falls on the wheels. When in position it is so constructed that it braces itself. The whole apparatus does not weigh over 700 Mr. Barnes, who is a blacksmith and lives at 50 Monterey street, says if he is granted a patent he will manufacture the machines himself. At the request of Superintendent now preparing to build a full sized bridge. Mr. Barnes' idea is for the street railway companies to have these bridges at different points along the route so they could be quickly hauled to the scene of the fire. The firemen claim they would be able to raise the bridge with the hose on it. M'CLURE AS A LUXURY.

What the Law and Order Chief Has Cost the County. Agent McCiure, of the Law and Order D. B. Murdoch, assessed full on 156x137 Society, as a luxury, was commented on freely vesterday by the County Commissioners and the taxpavers in general. The court records show that McClure has already cost

In his order refusing a rule to vacate sentence in this case, Judge White then said McClure had already cost the county $300. Again when he was accused of embezzlement half his costs were saddled on the county. It will cost at least $450 to convict the three L. & O, spies now confined in the county jail. The City May Have to Be Almost Entirely Reconstructed

TO FIT THE BAKER BALLOT LAW. Proposed Redivision of Wards Meeting

With Opposition.

TANGLE OVER THE SCHOOL PROPERTY Allegheny City is again distressingly muddled over its local legislation, and the citizens are confused over a variety of other matters that may require the assistance of the county courts to unravel. The resolution introduced into the Select branch of Allegheny Councils at its last meeting providing for a joint committee to econstruct and redivide the words of the city is what is causing all the trouble. The rearranging of the city wards brings up so many tangled questions that the people seem lost in the meshes of the project. The resolution passed the Select branch of Councils. It provided for the appointment of a committee composed of all the 13 members of Select Council and a Common Conneilman from each of the 13 wards in the city. Common Council refused to adopt the resolution on the ground that the Common branch of Councils is entitled to a larger representation on any committee than is the Select branch. Se-branch more than equal representation. May Knock Out Several Councilmen. The original plan was to have the resolution adopted by both branches and have the wards rearranged before the November election, but this hitch between the branches of Councils it is feared will so delay matters that the work cannot be accomplished be-fore the next general election, which, in its turn, threatens another serious trouble. By the act of '91 Allegheny City is allowed one Councilman for every 800 property holders in the city, and if the wards are not reconstructed to satisfy this law, then it is claimed several of the present members of Councils will be dropped from the list. J. R. Henricks said yesterday that the whole matter was very much complicated.

lect Council hesitates to give to the other

He did not believe, however, that the fear of having some of the Councilmen dropped was an argument in favor of haste in the matter. He argues that a rearrangement of the wards and voting precincts of Alle-gheny is made necessary by the Baker ballot law, which he contends would not allow Allegheny City to poll its full vote as the ward and election districts are now constituted. Not Enough Voting Places "Our experience in the recent Mayoralty election," Mr. Henricks said, "has taught us that we do not have enough voting places to enable all our people to vote, and the approaching Presidental election, when probably every vote in the city will be out, demands what the resolution in ber of the proposed committee. Then the committee can go to work. The matter will then be submitted to the people for them to vote upon, and by pushing things the city can be redistricted before the November election. There is no time to lose, Another serious question that arises out of the proposition is the division of the school property, and upon this question it is claimed there will be disputes that will necessarily be settled in court. Dividing Up the School Property. In constructing new wards out of the old ones the school property now in each of the old wards will have to be divided in some way and the erection of several new schoolhouses will be necesgetting the school building under the new arrangement will be compelled to pay to the new ward erected out of part of the old one one-half the value of the school property. In cases where the school property is en-cumbered it is claimed the ward getting the school property must shoulder the school debt and must also pay half the value of the school property to the new ward. Others claim that all the wards must share equally the school debt and that the newly elected wards must construct their own school All in all, the people are considerably agi-tated over the entire question.

"I am not at liberty to say who the proprietors are," said the doctor dence. I saw one of the gentlemen on the street this evening. He has just returned from Harrisburg, where he had been look-ing after the application for a charter, and he told me everything was all right and they were going ahead. The incline is to be built on a larger scale than any other in this vicinity. The cars will be so constructed as to permit the carrying of freight cars to the hill top for the benefit of merchants and others in that vicinity. I am not interested in the corporation, but I know it will be built, as the money is already up. I think it will help business in this end of the town

A few voters showed signs of town for sewerage. The Sewickleyians are clamoring for a system of sewerage, and it was thought wise to employ an engineer to make a specific plan of the borough.

It is thought the sewering of the town will not be very expensive; as the borough has natural advantages. The land has a gradual going over to Jones before another ballot was taken, and the Eastern men capitulated, making Jones' election unanimous. All the other officers were elected by acclama-natural advantages. The land has a gradual slope down to the river.

The Water Commission of Sewickley is also at work. The town has outgrown its present water works and is demanding a more modern plant and better supply. A reservoir up on the hill above the town and an artesian well down along the banks of the Ohio river have been furnishing the water. These were built quite a number of years ago and it is now a usual thing for the residents of the town to be without water. This plant not only tries to supply Sewick-
